First Aid Students Presented With Awards at Annual Banquet on Saturday Evening

J. O. C. McDonald Made Presentations; L. Dwarkin, J. Maurer and J. Andreschuk Win Awards in Respective Classes; A. F. Short, Chairman.

Another milestone in the history of First Aid in Coleman was reached on Saturday evening when the local association sponsored its annual banquet and presentation of awards to successful students of the past year. The banquet and presentations are the climax of a year's work and study by young men who are preparing themselves in a social service with which they can be of better service to their fellow man. Due to both mines working a number of First Aiders were unable to attend. However, a fairly large number were present. The association was successful in having some of its soldier members released from their base at Calgary in order to attend the banquet and they were given a warm greeting.

Chairman A. F. Short opened the banquet with the national anthem followed by a one minute's silence in honor of the late H. S. McDonald, who died during the past year and who had been one of the local association's staunchest supporters. In a few brief remarks the chairman expressed his pleasure at again being present at this annual occasion and pointed out a few of the members who were to be seen attending these functions year after year.

Two soldiers were present, David Neve and John Kanik. Both were called upon and expressed their pleasure at being able to attend. Pte. Kanik was present through the association's request to his superiors that he be allowed home to attend the banquet and receive his presentation.

Evan Morgan, mines' inspector, desired that First Aid be constantly kept in the limelight. He stated it was relief to him to have so many fine First Aiders in the Pass. Sidney S. Short stated that first aid was the finest form of social service and can engage the public. J. McDonald can contribute to the work of the leaders of the local association. Year after year excellent results were obtained by the leaders in turning out fine First Aiders. Their work was most appreciated. First Aid was in one sense more important in war times as all men joining the forces should have first aid training. He hoped the classes would be larger than ever.

Bob Henderson and W. Carlton, of Bellevue, expressed their thanks at receiving an invitation to attend the banquet. The latter is associated with first aid in Bellevue and it was his ambition to improve the standard of first aid in that town.

Dave Young, manager of the Hillcrest-Mohawk Collieries, paid tribute to the leaders of the local branch for their excellent work in teaching young men and also in maintaining such a high degree of interest in the local association. He expressed his pleasure at seeing new faces filling the vacancies caused by death and movement to other points.

Leah McDonald, superintendent at McGillivray Creek, was of the opinion that First Aid was one of the finest things a person could know. Coleman, he stated, was far ahead of neighboring towns and he hoped that the association here would increase in membership.

The highlight of the evening was the presentation of awards by Mr. J. O. C. McDonald, general superintendant at McGillivray Creek. He stated that it was a pleasure to him to see the old members continue year after year to teach the new members.

He reported that 65 members attended the men's senior class last winter. Fifty members were examined, 48 passing. The ladies' senior class had 38 members of which 31 sat for examinations, all passing. The Home Nursing class had 37 members. Twenty-six were examined and all passed. The C.A.T.S. had been taking first aid during most of the summer months and had also received instructions in A.R.P. work and also P.A.D. work.

In presenting special awards to class winners he stated that tonight was the first time the late George Kellock Memorial was presented and the wimer would have the honor of keeping it for one year. This year's winner was L. M. Dwarkin, who gained a total of 119 points out of a possible 120. Jake Andreschuk was the winner of the voucher class with a total of 104 out of 120. The medallion prize winner was J. Maurer with a perfect score of 120 points.

Awards were presented:

A feature of the presentations was the awarding to Mr. E. H. Hill his 28th label. Mr. McDonald congratulated him on his grand record and in reply Mr. Hill told of his early days in the force. He asked the young students to take more interest in the lectures and practical study of first aid when attending classes.

Following the presentation of awards Mr. McDonald paid tribute to the leaders of the local association and hoped that future classes would increase.

Chairman Short stated the study of first aid meant many hours of hard work. He hoped membership would increase and as long as interest in first aid remained at the same high pitch the association could count on the support of the coal companies.

President Dick Greenhalgh gave his hearty tribute to the three winners of the respective classes. He had been the examiner and stated that students of all classes had set a high standard of competition and that very few points separated the winner from the lowest competitor.

Everyone should have a general knowledge of first aid. Twice this year he had been called upon to administer first aid. Work at the classes had been of a high standard all year. He agreed with Mr. Hill that students should take greater interest in the classes but since the work was voluntary and the course long the students had to be exhorted to some degree. The first aid course would benefit them throughout life.

President Archie McCulloch gave a report on the year's work and he touched on the courses given the C.A.T.S. and the ladies' senior first aid class. He stated that the expenses of the banquet had been curtailed this year and the amount saved would be turned over to some local organization to be spent on local soldiers.

Jack Rushton, secretary for the past fourteen years, hoped that classes would continue to grow and that the new term would start soon.

An exceptionally fine entertainment program had been arranged. H. Harrison of Hillcrest, "the Wizard of the West" displayed his magic, uncovering many new tricks not previously shown in local performances and was given a big hand by all. Other splendid artists included Wm. Smith, singer; S. Wavrean, songs; T. Kopinak, E. Goulding, piano; accordion trio; A. McCullough, piano; Dr. C. Rose led the community singing and Jim Cousins presided at the piano both for the community singing and the artists.

Mr. and Mrs. George Duffield sr. and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kyle and wife, will leave on Friday for Vancouver where they will take up residence.

Mr. George Kellock is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. Kinneir, sr.

Coleman Workers Will Pull Their Weight in War Savings Campaign

Discussion at Tuesday's Council Meeting Hearns Explanation of Mayor Antrobous' Wise

To Ottawa.

The main topic at the council meeting on Tuesday was a discussion dealing with a meeting of the local War Savings Committee and M. Stigler and T. McCloy, labor organizer, and in reply Mr. Hill told of his explanation to the mayor.

The War Savings Committee had approached Messrs. Stigler and McCloy asking for their suggestions as to the best manner in which to canvass miners for increased subscriptions to the War Savings committee.

The committee were apparently disengaged at the reception given them by Messrs. Stigler and McCloy and voiced their opinion that they were disappointed with the spirit of non-cooperation.

However, there are encouraging signs that the opinions as expressed by the two labor representatives were not shared by all members of the union; as at a later meeting with Mr. W. White, as President of the Union, he had promised the full co-operation of the Union, and the manner of that co-operation is to be discussed at a future meeting of the union.

Major Antrobous sent a telegram to the Minister of Labor, saying there was no non-cooperation. The result was that the Ottawa office advised Pat Conroy, the Canadian Commissioner of Labor, of the condition at Coleman as outlined in the mayor's telegram. Conroy then sent a wire to M. Stigler, secretary of the U.M.W.A. local in Coleman stating that this was opposed to principles of union labor.

The miners local then demanded that Major Antrobous substantiate his statement of non-cooperation, and if his explanation was not satisfactory, his resignation be demanded.

GROWN IN SUNNY, SOUTHERN ONTARIO

Fight For Victory

War is no longer just a series of tactical exercises between professional soldiers. It is nation against nation, says a writer in the Financial Post. Hitler has pitted the force and strength of the entire German people (and all the slave labor and "boot" of a rich continent) against the resources—human, material and spiritual—of the democratic nations. His fights—as we must fight—with political weapons, psychological weapons and economic weapons.

In an "all-out" fight for Victory, the whole population is engaged. Every John Canuck has some Hans Schmidt whose effort he must match and surpass. Thus there is in Canada a factory front. There is a metals front, a financial front, a farm front. Together they comprise the economic front, equal in importance to the military front comprised of the fighting armories, air squadrons and naval ships.

The modern infantry division costs eight times as much to equip as the division of 1914-1918. It has 50 times the horsepower in its transport and fighting vehicles. It has 8 to 10 times the "fire-power" in its small arms and guns. A machine gun costs $300. It takes tens of thousands to equip our troops. A tank costs $75,000. We are making hundreds. A bomber plane costs $100,000. A dozen can crash in a night.

Ponder on those simple facts and you see why 18 workers on the home front are needed to keep one combatant in the field. You see why the economic front is a "front" and not just a sector or salient in this war.

Must Be United

The story of the economic mobilization of Canada is the story of an entire nation bracing itself to carry the greatest load it ever tried to carry. A load involving as great an effort as the very opening up of the country and the construction of the first canals, the first highways and the first transcontinental railway system.

Canada is tooling up to handle, in the next 12 months, war production in the factories along equal in value to more than the total war output of Canada throughout the whole of the last war.

New capital investments in factories, on government account alone—not including private investment—equal all the capital invested in the great pulp and paper industry of Canada, the world's largest producer of newsprint paper. And we're not at the peak yet. We measure our economic war "potential" only to find that we have to do even better than a measured maximum.

To-day, the controllers of our war economy must try to make seemingly inadequate resources stretch over a vast area. There aren't enough men; there's not enough steel, oil, rubber, silk, copper or food, not enough factory space and machinery.

As the war proceeds, more shortages will become apparent. Too many shortages of too many key products would be fatal. Our war effort would slow down and become less effective than it should be. Inflation would take hold and sow the seeds of postwar economic chaos.

How To Produce More

The only safeguard against either evil is the proper organization of every phase of the country's productive life for war. Something must be borrowed from the ruthless force and control of the totalitarian state. It must be drafted on to our democratic, individualistic economy to enable us to match the gigantic productivity of a state that has for years been nothing but a war machine. We have to produce more and use less of what we produce for civilian purposes. But people have to be not just asked to spend less; they have to be given less to spend and less to spend it on.

Life must be directly controlled to increase the nation's biting power. Fiscal measures must be drastic and are.

The limits of Canada's war effort have been set not entirely by the "physical capacity of the economic system," as one observer put it, so much as by the imagination and genius of Canada's leaders, her industrialists and her people. For the theoretical limits of capacity can—and have been—in no small measure—expanded by effort and sacrifice.

The "imastable demands of war" are calling forth a total economic effort exceeding anything in our previous history. All our treasure, all our mankind, all our resources are committed to an "all-out, national effort." That is the simple policy of Canada at war.

Win Empire Medals

Two leading airmen of the Royal Canadian Air Force, P. P. Conlin and C. R. James, have been awarded the British Empire Medal, military division, for bravery, the London Gazette announced. The men were cited for saving the life of a pilot whose aircraft had crashed and caught fire.

Women Accomplish Miracles

Thousands of Articles of Clothing Made By Women of Canada
(By Gregory Clark)

Seven hundred and fifty thousand articles of women's and children's clothing have been made by Canada's women and shipped to Britain, and distributed. Eighty thousand blankets and quilts, bandages, surgical and first aid dressings by the millions, all made by these same Canadian women who take a dollar, buy the raw material and make two dollars worth of the goods of mercy out of it.

Each of the twelve home defence areas of Britain has a mobile canteen provided by the Canadian Red Cross and ready to leave at an instant's notice for the scene of a bombing, cooking the food and preparing the tea as it goes. One hundred and fifty ambulances have been bought and paid for by Red Cross branches and are in use to-day in the rescue of civilian bomb victims. That number does not include 40 additional ambulances supplied to our Canadian troops overseas.

In May, the Canadian Red Cross organized a special fund to support the work amongst the bomb victims. It is called the Red Cross British Bomb Victims' Fund. Every cent contributed to that fund goes to the purchase of materials that will be made up by the women of Canada into garments for women and children, air raid shelter cloaks and baby layettes, maternity garments for women, and equipment, first aid and medical supplies. Every dollar given to that fund becomes two dollars worth of actual goods delivered.

None of this fund will go as money to Britain. It will go as goods made by the skilled hands of Canada's million Red Cross volunteer workers. Regardless of what other gifts you make to the Canadian Red Cross Society for its vast undertakings amongst our soldiers and sailors or in its far-flung work in Canada amongst pioneer settlements, it is suggested that a gift to the Red Cross British Bomb Victims' Fund will be a particularly blessed donation to enable the women of Canada to rush every kind of aid over to Britain before another winter and its perils come.

By a wonderful series of mischances and redirections, these women were successful in having in Britain a vast store of goods even at the start of this blackest year in human history which was last September when the Battle of Britain began. With the aid of the Red Cross British Bomb Victims' Fund, they will repeat that miracle for Britain.

Ice Dear In Alaska

For Some Weeks Price Has Been $80 A Ton

Winter is at hand, but ice sold in Anchorage, Alaska, for some weeks at $80 a ton. Walter Grahams found a good supply for his cocktail bar and advertises it thusly: "Ice 50,000 years old—pure glacier crystals." It comes from the Independence mine, 60 miles away, where a vein of glacial ice was found to be good "purity" after this fast-growing city exhausted the supply of ice cut last winter.

Ambassador Retires

Labor Training Programs

Shortage Of Labor To Man Busy War Factories Is Seen

Canada, dipping deep into her reserves of labor to man increasingly busy factories, has also extended labor training programs to an extent unknown in the past. Labor Department officials said.

War emergency training program reports that 33,000 persons took training from April 1 to August 30. The 93 schools and training centres reported 10,063 were actually in training on August 1.

Large numbers of those in the lower age groups of the classes are young men who have been rejected for enlistment. Selection officers have instructions to avoid admitting to classes men of military age except those rejected.

In the industrial classes discharged soldiers of the present war are receiving training alongside veterans of the First Great War. In the ex-soldier category, 1,650 men were being trained in the April 1 to August 30 period, and of these 48 were between 16 and 19 years; 327 from 20 to 29; 148 from 30 to 39; 368 from 40 to 49 and 126 from 50 years upward. The total included 33 trainees whose ages were still to be submitted.

Of the total of 10,719 new trainees of all types enrolled between April 1 and August 30, the largest group, 3,972, was in the 20 to 29 years age class.

Officials said that during August new trainees entering the classes numbered 4,365 of whom, 1,415 were enrolled in industrial training courses. 1,222 joined Royal Canadian Air Force classes and 1,628 were recruited to the schools by the army and navy for trade training.

From the classes, 1,588 were placed in employment in August, 434 who had completed their training in R.C.A.F. classes enlisted and 34 from the industrial classes enlisted in other units. Army and navy personnel who completed their training in August numbered 1,260.

Officials said that booming labor requirements indicated ordinary reserves would soon be exhausted and other sources would have to be examined. They said that in non-agricultural employment figures for all Canada showed a jump of 26.3 per cent between April, 1940, and April, 1941.

Dominion Bureau of Statistics figures showed that while a reserve of young people who had never worked was built up during the depression years it had been heavily drawn on since the start of the war. The registration of August, 1940, showed 32,000 males and 450,000 females had never worked, but officials said this total had been reduced since that total time.

For Longer Life

Medical Authority Thinks Man Can Be Made To Live 200 Or 300 Years

Dr. Maurice Ernest, 69, one of the world's greatest authorities on longevity, said that he would establish after the war a laboratory where he can develop his theories that man can be made to live 200 or 300 years.

Many discoveries that point the way to periodical rejuvenation without surgery already have been made, he said, and in this respect, the human race might take a hint from the fish.

"One of the many causes of aging is that man produces too much internal heat," he said. "Fish, which have the same temperature as the water in which they live, never grow old in the sense that their flesh becomes tough."

Although he did not suggest that humans seek some way to live in water, he said:

"A cook sometimes complains that a fowl is tough, but whenever heard one complain of a tough fish."

Dr. Ernest is a former newspaperman who covered London for numerous Austrian, Swedish and American papers at the turn of the century. He also assisted the late Conan Doyle in espionage during the Boer War, but gave up journalism to return to medical practice.

He founded the Centenarian Club in 1928 "to inspire men and women with the desire to live on as able-bodied, clear-mindedarians (Christians) and investigate the means by which this may be achieved."

Dr. Ernest said over 200 centenarians all over the world had been admitted to honorary membership. "But unfortunately, they do not retain their membership long."

Many men and women tie up their dogs at night but allow their children to run around promiscuously.

Airmen Are Good Cooks

Twenty-Second Class Graduates In Special Course At Guelph

Seven of the Canadian provinces, England and Scotland, were represented in the class of airmen who graduated from the Royal Canadian Air Force School of Cookery, attached to the No. 4 Wireless School, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

The group is the twenty-second class to graduate from the special short course since it was instituted about two years ago, and is the third class to be officially graduated with fitting ceremony.

The men were recommended for graduation by Flight Lieutenant Dr. H. D. Branion, one-time head of the O.A.C. Nutrition Department, and now in charge of the air force cooking school. Praise for their work and achievements was given by Wing Commander A. H. Keith Russell, officer commanding the local wireless school, who presented the diplomas. He stressed the importance of the cook in effectiveness of air activities. The class was presented by Flight Lieutenant W. M. Thomson, M.C., D.F.C., adjutant of the wireless school.

Soy beans and by-products, Siberian timber and dried fish are the principal exports of Vladivostok. Completion of the Trans-Siberian railroad raised Vladivostok from its frontier-town stage early in the 20th century.

Money Easily Earned

Man Made A Particular Good Bargain With Hunter

Richard Brinsley Sheridan, the famous English playwright, after hunting all day without success, was returning to his home when he noticed a flock of ducks resting on a pond. A man seated on the shore was watching the birds, and Sheridan asked him: "What will you take for a shot at the ducks?" The man looked up at him thoughtfully. "I think a sovereign will do," he finally said. Sheridan paid him the money. Then, taking aim, he fired into the middle of the flock, killing quite a number. Joyfully he turned to the man: "I'm afraid you made a bad bargain," he laughed. "Oh, I don't know," replied the other. "They're not my ducks."

"My word this tastes good," said the old lady, drinking a glass of beer for the first time. "It's just like the medicine my husband has been taking for the last 40 years."

An ordinance passed in Waterloo, Neb., in 1910, reads: "It shall be illegal for any barber in this town to eat onions between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m."

Look For A New German Drive On Russian Oil Fields

London.—The fall of Rostov, big Black sea shipping and manufacturing centre on the Don river, probably would be the signal for a new German drive on Astrakhan, informed sources said.

This would involve an advance of 400 miles from the Don across the wide isthmus which separates the Black and Caspian seas and would take the Germans on their furthermost First War outpost. Astrakhan is near the mouth of the Volga where it empties into the Caspian sea.

Although the distance involved in such an advance is great, the Germans thereby would accomplish two objectives.

They would sever the bulk of the Russian armies and industries from their oil supplies in the Caucasus, and they would cut into separate fronts the forces defending the Caucasus and the rest of Russia. They would also imperil the British-American supply line coming up through Iran to the Soviet front.

A German advance to the Volga probably would make it impossible for the Russians to use that broad stream as an alternative shipping route from the Caspian.

Russian forces left in the high mountain ranges of the Caucasus to defend the oil fields, however, presumably could still be supplied from Iran even if the Germans succeeded in driving to Astrakhan.

It is on the Caucasian front that speculation most often has mentioned the possibility of British forces in the Middle East joining hands in a common battle line with Russian troops.

Supply Of Eggs

A Mild Winter On Prairies Would Increase Production

Ottawa.—A mild winter on the prairies will mean a great deal in facilitating the supply of Canadian eggs to the United Kingdom, agriculture department officials said.

Initial steps to increase the supply of eggs for export have worked out well, officials said. Their reports indicated that many poultry owners increased flocks last spring and that the young birds will be laying in December, with the prospect that a surplus of eggs will be available for shipment.

"An element of uncertainty is the weather in the prairie provinces during the winter months," an official said. "If the winter is mild, the increase in egg production should be substantial; if it is severe, the gain in output will be less than we hoped."

May Have Own Navy

London.—Vatican City is considering purchase of a merchant navy, according to a Reuters Stockholm dispatch, quoting the Berlin correspondent of the Swiss newspaper Dagens Nyheter. The dispatch said the ships would fly the pope's flag and carry food supplies.

Difficult Position Of France Under Nazi Domination

Vichy.—France struck a balance sheet of one year of collaboration with Germany and found that it had netted almost nothing beyond the release of 100,000 prisoners of war.

It was one year ago at Montoire, that Marshal Petain and Adolf Hitler laid the foundation for Franco-German collaboration.

Since then, France has realized none of the principal hopes she placed in collaboration. In addition, 1,400,000 prisoners still are behind the barbed wire fences of German camps.

France had believed that the Nord and Pas de Calais departments on the north coast would be returned, but they are still "hostage" provinces of the German military administration in Brussels.

She had even hoped that some solution would be found to save Alsace and Lorraine, but these provinces are now under a German garrison and 40,000 Frenchmen have been expelled.

She had hoped Germany would cut the occupation cost of 400,000,000 francs (about $8,000,000) a day by at least half to help avert inflation, but France still pays the full amount.

Study Taxation

No Increase In Sales Tax Is Now Likely

Ottawa.—The government's new price and wage stabilization policy may have important influences on the trend of future taxes, it was suggested in government circles.

If prices and wages are to be held present levels the tax increases regarded as certain to come in the next budget may be so designed as not to influence prices and costs of production to a greater degree than necessary, it was said.

The principal tax which contributes directly to the cost of goods is the eight per cent sales tax. In discussion on the last budget in the House of Commons Finance Minister Ilsey indicated the government had considered increasing that tax to 10 per cent, but decided against the increase because it did not wish to encourage an upward price movement.

With governmental policy now set even more firmly against price increases it is considered unlikely that any increase in the sales tax will be proposed for next year.

To conform with the general aim of stabilizing prices at present levels the taxing experts may be expected to recommend increase in direct taxes such as the national defence tax, the income tax and the corporation tax rather than increases in indirect taxes such as the sales tax, the customs tariff and the various excise duties levied on particular products.

Indirect taxes are those which are usually passed on by the taxpayer to some other person in the form of higher charges for goods or services. Direct taxes are those which hit one taxpayer and stay with him.

Appeal To Frenchmen

Are Aroused To Continue Sabotage Instead Of Killing Germans

New York.—The BBC appealed to Frenchmen to refrain from killing Germans and confine themselves instead to acts of sabotage in the factories.

It predicted in a broadcast heard by NBC that for every French hostage now executed by the Nazis, two Germans will be shot in the future. A German shot to-day will only be replaced by another German tomorrow, while 50 or more Frenchmen will lose their lives in the meantime," said London.

"A defective airplane part in an aircraft produced in France will cause the loss of a valuable machine for the Germans; a sabotaged tank will be of much more value to France than the life of one German soldier."

The strength of Royal Canadian Air Force to-day is more than 10 times what it was at the outbreak of war.

No Invasion

Hugh Dalton Replies To Demands For A Second Front

London.—Hugh Dalton, minister of economic warfare, in a speech quoted by the British Broadcasting Corporation, criticized public pronouncements for creation of a second front against Germany.

"If those who talk of opening up a western front would spend more time in devoting the utmost effort to producing the equipment required, they would be better serving their own cause," Mr. Dalton said.

He added that the people of Germany and Italy "sooner or later" would turn in wrath against Hitler and Mussolini.

"And the sooner they do so, the better," he said.

Problem Of Honor

Japanese Say That American Navy Is Losing Face

New York.—Japan apparently fears the United States is losing face because the American navy hasn't sunk any German warships. The Tokyo radio station was heard in New York saying:

"In spite of the fact that more than a month has elapsed since the issuing of the shooting order by President Roosevelt, American naval vessels—although they are fully equipped—are still unable to destroy or sink any German submarines or battleships."

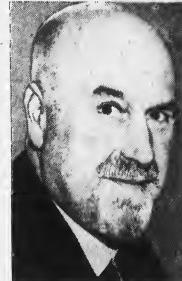

This, said Tokyo, "has created a very serious problem of honor for the United States navy."

Speed Production

Washington.—Leaders of a British management-labor mission, which has spent a month studying United States industry, predicted that American arms output would reach a peak in the spring sufficient to "lock Hitler or anyone else."

Indirect taxes are those which are usually passed on by the taxpayer to some other person in the form of higher charges for goods or services. Direct taxes are those which hit one taxpayer and stay with him.

For Army Women

Disability Pensions For Canadian Women's Army Corps

Ottawa.—Disability pensions for members of the Canadian Women's Army Corps and the Canadian Women's Auxiliary Air Force have been authorized by order-in-council, it was announced.

For subaltern or equivalent rank in the Women's Army Corps, and for section officers or equivalent rank in the air force and all ranks and ratings below, the total disability pension is set at the annual rate of $600. There are 18 pensionable classes, the lowest for which pension is awardable being 24 per cent. to 20 per cent. disability, $120 a year. For a disability of less than 20 per cent. on payment or a gratuity not exceeding $300 may be granted.

BRITISH TAKE OVER OIL PLANT

Indian riflemen enter the main gates of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. plant at the head of the Persian Gulf on the River Shatt Al Arab, in Iran. The personnel, mostly British, witnessed the troop movement, and were on hand to welcome the British Empire troops. Meanwhile Russian troops moved in from the north and the ancient kinsman was soon jointly held. The oil plant here was functioning as usual within a few hours after the troops took over.

"WE'VE NEVER BEEN NEUTRAL . . ."

Secretary Knox said, "We have never been neutral. We should put a period to this piece of national hypocrisy." ## Canadian Trained Airmen Given Royal Welcome To England

Somewhere in Southern England.—Hundreds of Canadian-trained airmen were given a royal welcome to England when the King and Queen visited a personnel reception centre where the airmen are waiting to be posted with operational training camps and squadrons.

Their Majesties spent nearly an hour with these new recruits for the Empire squadrons most of whom had arrived in Britain less than a week ago.

They talked with the young men from the dominions, colonies and the United States, who were drawn up in a hollow square. Senior Royal Air Force and Empire Air Force officers, including Air Commodore L. F. Stevenson, officer commanding Canadian air headquarters in Britain—who had learned only a few hours earlier of his appointment to a western Canada command—welcomed Their Majesties who drove to the parade ground amid thousands of cheering civilians.

The visit was the first that the King and Queen had paid to his town since the war began and was supposed to be a secret, as all movements of royalty in wartime Britain, but the news leaked out and the town reminded Canadian observers of the appearance of Canadian dukes during the royal tour of the Dominion two years ago.

New Nazi Plane

Report Germany Has New Fighter Plane That Is Heavily Armed

London.—The magazine Aeroplane reported Germany has a new fighter plane, more heavily armed than any Nazi fighter which has yet opposed the R.A.F.

The machine was described as a Focke-Wolf 190, and is believed to have eight machine guns.

Technical authorities quoted by Aeroplane estimated the craft has a maximum speed of 370 m.p.h. at 19,000 feet and can operate at 40,000 feet. Its range at 300 m.p.h. cruising speed was put at 525 miles.

Sabotage In Poland

London.—The Polish Telegraphic Agency reported that sabotage of German freight trains and military equipment transports between Berlin and Warsaw is causing damage amounting to several hundred thousand marks. The agency reported the sabotage had resulted in the sentencing to death and execution of five Poles tried by a special tribunal at Poznan.

Britain And U. S. Working Top Speed On Aid To Russia

London.—Britain and the United States are working at top speed to offset Britain's inability to help Russia by attacking Germany in the west, despatches from London and Washington reveal.

The plan is to pour military and other supplies into Russia and to do it fast. Aside from Russia's urgent immediate needs, the plan looks forward to Russia's future struggle.

It is based on the premise that even if Leningrad Moscow and the remainder of the Ukraine fall, Russia will continue to fight into next year. It does not concede that they will fall, however, and the supplies now en route or ready for shipment, as far as United States imports go, are intended to aid the defence of those threatened centres.

The transportation problem is the most difficult, and it is being attacked with energy. The shortest supply routes are through Iran in the south and Archangel in the north. Washington has decided to abandon the long trans-Pacific route through Vladivostok and Siberia as far as United States imports are concerned. Archangel will be used instead.

Archangel is normally ice-bound by the end of October but ice breakers can certainly keep it open until mid-January and perhaps through the winter. The port is connected by rail with Moscow, 550 miles away. At Vologda it connects with the Trans-Siberian westward to Leningrad and eastward to the area beyond Moscow, should the Russians have to retreat from there.

It was revealed in London that locomotives and railway carriages already are being delivered by Britain to Russia. The United States has been asked to provide 200 locomotives and 4,500 freight cars, mostly for use in Iran.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Can't Pass the Buck

WARTIME prosperity has benefitted industry of all kinds. Unemployment is the lowest it has been for years. Gallant young men have headed the call, but there are not enough to meet the need to put Canada's fighting forces up to required strength. There is only one remedy, and that is—Conscription, or selective service, call it what you will. Right in this Crows Nest Pass, as in the last war, the British born have been the first to volunteer. One cannot tell others they ought to go. Yet, if Canada is to raise its army to strength, the government will have to tell who shall go—they cannot pass the buck any longer. And regardless of birth, those who are registered as Canadian citizens will have to line up.

The Bait of 1935

Many from selfish motives in 1935 applied for naturalization papers. We remember seeing a long string of people registering for the promised $25 monthly, which was Premier Aberhart's bribe to get votes. Of course, the "dividend" never did and never will materialize, for it has acted in reverse and all have paid increased taxes and government liquor store prices have hit the limit. In fact, the liquor commissioners say they are stabilized—he does not think they will go any higher. When one reads the amount of the net profit, it looks like a real racket against the consumer. But we're getting away from the subject. At the time our prophet, priest and spell-binder hypnotized the less thinking portion of the population into believing that a dividend cheque would be mailed to them every month, one of the conditions to be met was that the recipient must be a Canadian citizen. There had been hundreds living in Alberta prior to that, who for years had never thought sufficient of Canadian citizenship to bother about taking naturalization papers, either because they were too lazy or because they did not want to assume the full duties of citizenship. But what a rush there was when they thought some money was to be had without working for it.

Now this type of people do not appreciate the fact that if they wish to enjoy the privileges and freedom which Democracy gives them, they must be prepared to fight. All through life one has to fight to preserve his freedom, and if he doesn't, he has to be the obedient slave of those stronger than himself.

The Weaklings Become Slaves

If storekeepers of the Crows Nest Pass or others not bound by union ties bow beneath the yoke of labor dictatorship, then they must put up with the results. They engaged in business to carve out a career for themselves on honest and fair lines, yet if they submit to terms imposed by others, they are no longer their own bosses. There are times when the people look to a government for leadership, and if it is not forthcoming, because of pussy-footing on the part of cabinet ministers, then the thug organizers hold sway. Experiences in the United States and Canada prove it. Governments move no faster as a rule than public opinion compels them to, yet in time of crisis such as all Democratic nations face, the people would welcome toro leadership.

The War Savings Campaign

What is this town doing to raise more money for the War Savings campaign? What proportion of increased income has been set aside each week to buy stamps or certificates? We may become monotonous through repetition, but there's a job to be done behind the lines as well as on the fighting front, and it is our part to do all in our power to share in the general effort till it hurts. There is no actual sacrifice entailed in buying war savings stamps or certificates, for you are just loaning your money with the benefit of interest paid. All kinds of excuses can be raised why stamps should not be purchased. Many do the same when asked to help pay church expenses. The more that is put aside to help the war effort, the less will be spent unnecessarily, for munitions are more important than gasoline or many other things which can be easily curtailed under present conditions. Where there's a will there's a way. As a democratic people, we are given the choice of contributing through loans towards financing the war. If we don't, then the only remedy will be further taxation, and there won't be any return either in principal or interest on the taxes that you pay.

Christmas Is Coming

Less than two months will be Christmas Day. If you intend sending parcels to soldiers overseas, they should be mailed by November 3. The letters from soldiers show how deeply they appreciate gifts, and a hundred cigarettes are highly prized in Britain, where they are difficult to obtain. It helps the morale of the boys to be remembered, to know that the folks back home have sent them something more substantial than good wishes. Organizations such as the Canadian Legion are doing valuable service in supplying cigarettes, and people who subscribe to their fund are doing a good turn.

Facts About Cancer

A lump in the breast is a dangerous signal, a warning to that person to seek medical advice. Not that a lump in the breast means that it is cancer. It is probably not, but it is also true that a certain number are and many more may become cancerous if neglected for any length of time.

A lump in the breast is a very definite danger. It is a red light of warning, but like a red light it becomes a safeguard if precautions are taken.

What should be done if you discover a lump in your breast? First of all don't get panicky or hysterical about it. It is not nearly so serious as many other conditions if attended to at once. There is practically a hundred per cent chance that nothing serious will come of it if proper medical advice is sought early.

Don't try to massage it away or use somebody's "wonder oil" on it. You are only spreading it and making it more difficult for later treatment.

Don't be ashamed of it. Don't try to hide it or forget about it. SEE A DOCTOR AT ONCE. Let nothing delay you because the disease disappears. Thousands of lives would be saved every year if it were not for the delay. Don't wait for pain to occur with the idea that if it isn't painful it cannot be cancer. Unfortunately, EARLY CANCER IS NOT PAINFUL.

Don't put off consultation on account of expense. If you are needed by your family it is all the more reason for looking after yourself.

We see them board the train after their last leave home . . . boys we've known since they were babies. We say "Good Luck . . . we're all pulling for you", as we bid them Good Bye. But are we? Are we "pulling" . . . all we can? What are we doing to help them? Are we giving them the things they need so badly . . . ships and tanks and guns and planes and ammunition? Are we giving them all they need? That's one thing we can do . . . we who stay at home . . . one thing we must do. We

The help of every Canadian is needed for Victory. In these days of war the thoughtless, selfish spender is a traitor to our war effort. A reduction in personal spending is now a vital necessity to relieve the pressure for goods, to enable more and more labour and materials to be diverted to winning the war. The all-out effort, which Canada must make, demands this self-denial of each of us.

Chellis Easton spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Easton, leaving on Tuesday morning for Vancouver. He has been employed with the Canada Car & Foundry Co., at Fort William during the past year and expects to get employment at an airplane factory at the Pacific coast.

Among those attending the graduating exercises at Macleod air school on Wednesday were Mrs. W. L. Rippon, Mrs. H. Dafoe, Mrs. N. MacAulay and the Misses Edith Hayson and Lorraine Rippon.

During October $265.00 was collected by the Cigarette Fund committee from the business and professional men. Those donating included two doctors, two hotels and 31 business men. And at the bank on Saturday $49.50 was collected by the committee.

Improvement has been made to approaches of the Makin and Sudworth residences on Third street. Foreman John Nikutuk has cut part of the hill away and made a sidewalk. He has also laid concrete drainage pipes in front so as to fill up the deep and dangerous ditch which has been there for many years.

Letter was received by The Journal this week from Pte. L. A. Caroe now stationed at Red Deer. He states he feels at home at Red Deer. He has met Mr. and Mrs. "Cliff" Picard who are now residents at that town and have spent many enjoyable evenings with them. He is at present engaged in driving an army truck.

Mrs. J. J. McIntyre was hostess at a social evening held in her home on Wednesday of last week in honor of Mrs. E. C. Costick, of Bellevue, who will leave shortly to take up residence with her husband, Capt. E. C. Costick, stationed at Calgary. Twenty-one ladies were present. As a token of friendship and remembrance the guest-of-honor was presented with a house coat and a pair of slippers.

Si. Simington, with the aid of the Canadian Red Cross, has been successful in tracing his mother and sisters and brothers in Norway. Filling out a Red Cross form in February Mr. Simington received news early this month that his family were alive and well. A number of other local people have taken advantage of the Red Cross' offer to trace missing relatives in Europe. Forms can be secured from the local secretary, Mrs. A. Walker.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wyman to Reside At Fernie

Mr. Arthur Wyman, superintendent at Sentinel Power plant, and Mrs. Wyman and two children expect to leave on Friday for Fernie where they will take up residence.

They have resided at Grows Nest Lake during the past ten years. Mr. Wyman having been a member of the staff at the power plant. Several years ago Mr. Wyman was promoted to superintendent of the plant and has acted in that office until this week, when he received instructions that he had been transferred to the Fernie office.

They plan on leaving to-morrow. Several socials have been held in Mrs. Wyman's honor and on Monday evening they were presented with two small gifts in token of the esteem held for them by the Lions Club.

On Monday, Oct. 6, the East Kootenay Power Co. employees with their families, and the Sentinel friends of Mr. and Mrs. A. Wyman gathered at the home of the latter for a surprise party in their honor. The party enjoyed a gay evening of games and quizzes. The ladies served a dainty lunch. On behalf of those present, Mr. Sharpe presented the guests with a coffee table of Imperial Loyalist maple. In a few well-chosen words he expressed the gathering's regret at the departure of Mr. Wyman and family to Fernie but wished them continued success in their new home. Mr. and Mrs. Wyman fittingly replied saying they too were sorry to be leaving Sentinel which had been their home for the past ten years. The party broke up in the small hours of the morning.

Mrs. A. Wyman entertained at three tables of bridge at her home at Sentinel last Friday. Prize winners were Miss E. Hayson, Mrs. S. Murdoch and Mrs. Fred Guerard.

Coleman Light & Water Co., Ltd.*STABILIZATION OF PRICES AND WAGES

Your Country asks your loyal support of this Wartime Measure

TWO NEW CONTROLS have now become essential in Canada's wartime design for living. These are:

(1) Control of Prices

Commencing November 17, 1941, there may be no increase in the prices of goods and services generally unless absolutely necessary and authorized by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

(2) Control of Wages

No employer, with certain limited exceptions, may increase the basic wage rates paid to his employees unless authorized by a Board on which the Government, employers and employees are represented. But after February 15, 1942, every employer with the same exceptions, will be obliged to pay a cost of living bonus and to adjust this bonus every three months.

Action Necessary to Stop Inflation
This Government action has been taken to prevent the inflation we knew in the last war, and its subsequent depression, unemployment and suffering.

Every housewife knows that prices are rising, and rising prices, unless controlled, will make it more costly and difficult to finance the war. Rising prices, unchecked, will spread confusion in industry and trade; will hinder production and proper distribution of supplies; will make the cost of living rise more rapidly than wages and salaries; will lessen the value of savings; will result in hardship for almost everyone, and especially those with small incomes. And the result of uncontrolled inflation, after the war, when prices drop, will again be depression and unemployment. Prices cannot be controlled without control of wages. Excess profits are, and will continue to be, under rigid control.

Coverage of Wages Stabilization Order
The Order is applicable to the following employers:

- 1—Every employer normally subject to the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act.
- 2—Every employer engaged in the manufacture of munitions of war, or war supplies, or the construction of defence projects.

3—Every building trades employer with ten or more employees.

4—Every other private employer with fifty or more employees.

The Order does not apply to employers in agriculture or fishing, or to hospitals, religious, charitable or educational associations operated on a non-profit basis.

Wage Provisions

Except on written permission of the National War Labour Board, no employer may increase his basic wage rates. This permission can only be given in cases where the Board has found the wage rates to be low. Wage rates which are unduly high will not have to be decreased, but in such cases the Board may order the employer to defer the cost of living bonus.

Cost of Living Bonus

Every employer covered by the Order must pay to all his employees except those above the rank of foreman a wartime cost of living bonus.

Effective November 15, each employer already paying a bonus under PC 7440 of December 16, 1940, shall add to such bonus an amount based on the rise in the cost of living index for October 1941 above the index number used to determine the current amount of the bonus.

Effective February 15, 1942, each employer who has not been paying a cost of living bonus must begin to pay a bonus based on the rise in the index between October, 1941, and January, 1942, unless ordered by the Board to base the bonus on the rise in the cost of living over a longer period.

The bonus is calculated on the following basis: For each rise of one point in the cost of living the amount of the bonus shall be 25 cents per week, except for male workers under 21 years of age and female workers, who, if employed at basic rates of less than $25.00 per week, shall receive a bonus of 1 percent of their basic wage rates.

These bonuses will be adjusted regularly every three months.

Administration

The Order will be administered by five regional Boards under the direction of a National War Labour Board. Labour and employers will be represented on each of these Boards. Watch for the announcement of these Boards to which inquiries concerning the application of the Order should be directed.

Whole-Hearted Support Required

Your Government knows that this policy, as it affects labour, industry, commerce, and agriculture, demands a degree of restriction to which Canadians are not accustomed, and is directly a wartime measure. It will demand self-discipline and self-control. It will need the whole-hearted support of everyone who has the well-being of his fellow citizens at heart. But by loyal co-operation, Canadians can have much more assurance that the fears, sense of insecurity, the suffering and profligacy which inflation always brings, will neither interfere now in the winning of this war, nor in the recovery and reconstruction of Canada and the Canadian way of living after the war is over.

Issued under the authority of
Hon. N. A. McLARTY,
Minister of Labour

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

An authoritative source said that 66,000 men from all parts of the British Empire were prisoners of war in enemy hands.

Air Chief Marshal Sir Hugh Dowding of the Royal Air Force has been placed on the retired list, it was announced in the London Gazette.

The commander of the German submarine "L70" recently captured in the Atlantic by a British patrol bomber, was shot dead in an attempt to escape from prison camp.

A Royal Air Force gunner, only survivor of a bomber which crashed in the North Sea, saved himself by swimming nine miles to shore after stripping off his flying suit.

Possibility of new purchases of Canadian equipment for the Indian army is being explored in Ottawa by an Indian purchasing mission headed by Sir Chan Muckam Chetty.

Bordons has caused a boom in chess in Britain. Soldiers, fire-watchers and wardens have started playing the game to pass away idle time.

The human body can withstand the blast of high explosives more effectively than bricks and mortar, Professor S. Zukerman, young English anatomist, reported after conducting extensive research.

The war office has decided to match German terror films. More than 100 expert photographers have been released from the army and after a six-weeks course will be drafted to various war zones.

Cheque for $72,000 ($324,000) for purchase of airplanes was presented to Lt-Col T. C. Moore-Brunton, minister of aircraft production on behalf of the motor industry fighter fund making their total gift $472,500.

End Of Royal Coach

Last Of The Famous Horses Are Now In The Zoo

Sir Garrard Tyrwhitt-Drake has sent to an England zoo the three surviving white horses, known as Royal Creems or Windsor Greys, of the stable so long maintained as motive power for the royal coach. The animals have been pastured for months and are somewhat thin. As The London Times points out editorially, they hardly give zoo visitors an adequate idea of the eight plump stallions which on state occasions appeared in the streets of London with the royal coach. Sir Garrard writes to the Times that the decision to give up these living emblems of the royal house was not surprising when one considers the expense of maintaining them. He adds: "In many ways like the Belgian Blacks, but with much better quarters and hind-leg action, they are 'soft' horses, rather stupid. They must have been fairly strong because the royal team of eight not only dragged the royal coach, which weighed upwards of six tons, true only at a walk, but each horse carried a set of red Morocco harness weighing over one hundred pounds and the four outside horses a postilion as well." Dispensing with the Royal Creems ends use of the massive gilded coach in which the young George III opened parliament in 1762 and which had been the focal point of most important royal processions ever since.

Milk Composition

Milk contains approximately 13 per cent. solid water. This is a larger amount than occurs in many foods, yet the fat is frequently overlooked because milk is in liquid form. The solids are composed of several food elements, proteins, fats, sugar, and minerals, each of which performs its special function in nourishing the body.

A Strange Parish

One of the world's strangest parishes is that of the chaplain of an Iraq oil company. Only six feet wide, but 1,200 miles long, the parish covers the area of two pipe lines from Haifa to Tripoli, and the chaplain administers to the men in charge of these.

It is estimated that Great Britain is spending $2,039,583 every hour, in financing the war. It comes high, we have to do it—or perish.

Don't be ashamed to wear your old clothes until you are able to pay for new ones.

Just Reflex Action

When Baby Smiles It Is Unconscious Act

When a baby smiles, is it from mirth or from an uncontrollable reflex?

An article in the magazine Hygeia, has this to say about babies: "Observation with a motion-picture camera has recorded that young infants often smile in their sleep, but seldom when they are awake unless the skin around the zone near the mouth is gently stroked. The smile seen on the baby during sleep is thought to be of reflex origin, an unconscious act of which the baby may be entirely unaware. It should be remembered that the mouth and lips are the most sensitive parts of the body in early infancy. Stimuli in this area, from within and without, are readily received and the reflex movement of some of the facial muscles respond to produce the smile."

Secret Air Defences

Britain Is Preparing For German Night Bombers

The long lull in heavy German operations against Britain has been utilized in manufacturing and training efforts, and Lt-Gen. Sir Frederick Pile predicts that if the Nazi Air Force resumed night raids in force this winter its losses will be twice those of last winter.

Gen. Pile is chief of British anti-aircraft defences.

He said anti-aircraft fire efficiency had increased between 15 and 30-fold since September, 1940. He reported guns and searchlights had been more favorably situated and that the men were better trained in the use of radio location finders. In addition, he said, Britain has obtained more secret devices to deal with aerial invaders.

There was no hint of the nature of these devices.

Shipping Losses

Have Been Less In Last Year Than In 1917

British, Allied and neutral shipping losses from all causes have been less in the last 12 months than they were in 1917 from submarine attacks alone. A. C. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, declared in a Trafalgar Day broadcast.

British and her allies lost 1,960 merchant ships and fishing vessels of 5,639,000 gross tonnage in 1917. This covered the period of unrestricted German U-boat warfare which reached its peak in April of that year.

Mr. Alexander acknowledged, however, that British and Allied losses had been less.

Had His Number

"No," came back the calm reply, "but I know where you are!"

HER SOS SAVED SHIP

By Anne Adams

Officials have revealed that an SOS signal sent from a Norwegian freighter by Fern Blodgett, (above) Toronto girl wireless operator, played a big part in saving the ship and cargo after it was attacked by U-boat in mid-ocean. The submarine came to the surface about 300 yards away from them and had its sight trained on the ship, ready to fire a torpedo into her hull. Miss Blodgett sent out the SOS, which was intercepted by British naval vessels. The wireless message, and an added burst of speed on the ship, discouraged the U-boat commander and he submerged rather than risk capture.

Not The Right Word

Killing Of Innocent Hostages Is Not Execution But Murder

A letter in the New York Times says: I am pained to see some of our newspapers refer to the killing of innocent hostages by the malevolent leaders of the Nazi hosts as "executions." An execution, according to Webster, is "a putting to death as a legal penalty." Let us call to Webster: "Look here, girl, do you know who I am?"

"No," came back the calm reply, "but I know where you are!"

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

NOVEMBER 2

SIN AND ITS CONSEQUENCES

Golden text: If we confess our sins, he is faithful and righteous to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness. I John 1:9.

Lesson: Genesis 3:1-24; Psalm 14:7-8; Jeremiah 17:9-10; Mark 7:20-23; Romans 1:18-32; 6:23; Galatians 6:7, 8; James 1:13-15; I John 1:5, 2:6; Revelation 22:10-12.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 51:1-13.

Explanations and Comments

We Reap What We Sow, Galatians 6:7, 8. Be not deceived, God is not mocked, as they who expect to escape the consequences of their actions seem to think they can mock him. God's law of the spiritual harvest is that whatsoever a man sows that shall he also reap. We usually think of this as referring to financial rewards or punishments, but it does, but in a broader meaning, is also true that "he who sows bad reaps wheat, not tares." Verse eight is a particular example coming under the general truth expressed in verse seven. "The flesh" is here thought of as the evil nature. The flesh, as God's law inflicts are natural punishments. The flesh grows out of the wrongs that men commit. As the plant grows out of the soil, so the man grows out of the child, so the punishments which God imposes come out of the sins that man has committed (John 3:19).

What Is God And Who Should Be? I John 1:5, 6. The message which John had received from Christ (see verses 1-3) and which he now hands on, is that God is light, and that there is no darkness (moral darkness, in sin at all). "Light, as he is unrestricted with darkness, means ethical perfection." Light describes the absolute purity and holiness of God as he has been revealed in Christ. (A. S. Peake).

It is not possible to live in sin and keep the fellowship of God. John 3:19, "wherever there is sin there is death." Sin is a familiar figure of speech for one's customary conduct. For "doing the truth" means not living in harmony with the demands of truth; "the life as well as the statements of the lips is false."

A man in moral darkness can no more have communion with God than a coal in a furnace can have communion with the sun." (A. Plummer).

What Soldiers Eat

According To A Report From Britain They Eat More And Drink Less Than The Men Of 1914

To-day's soldiers don't like beer. They prefer sweet things of all kinds. And they don't care much for community singing. They would rather read.

They're not at all like the men of 1914, according to a survey of conditions in the camps, conducted by the British military, naval and air forces canteens department.

Last war 98 per cent. of the total sales at the army canteens was for beer. To-day, only five per cent. of the turnover in the canteens is in beer.

In the World War, soldiers liked tasty bits—to day they prefer sweet cake, cream buns, chocolates.

Indian soldiers have the sweetest tooth of all.

The Allied troops put sausages first among their food favorites. Twenty-five different varieties are supplied.

Canadians like hot dogs. Americans coffee and cheese croissants.

Sailors like sweets, too. And the men of the Royal Navy ask for so much lime juice and soda that special soda fountains are being installed on some warships.

According to Dr. J. P. S. Cathcart, a noted neuropsychiatrist, Canada's fighting men of 1940 drink less than the soldiers of 1914-18 but they eat more.

It seems that they have contracted a disease known as "the snack habit" and the amount of chocolate bars, doughnuts and peanuts they make away with is positively amazing. In addition to possessing enormous appetites for sweets the fellows have a remarkable capacity for "guzzling" soft drinks between meals. The doctor says that often when a man is sick the cause of the trouble can be traced back to the canteen, and from what he's been eating "you'd think he was a small boy with a dollar at the circus."

"Snacking," while it seems to be a very infectious disease, does not appear to destroy the men's appetites at meal times. When the dinner going goes they're right there, ready to make a sport work of the food set before them. Canada's soldiers are said to be better fed than any others in the world.

A Fair Hint

The fact that Norwegians poured kerosene on codfish that was being shipped to Germany should give Adolf a good example of what Norway thinks of his protection policy from the British. And the group who watched German-held Oslo being raided by the R.A.F. and celebrated after the damage was done, provided another example.

Health LEAGUE of CANADA presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

HEALTH OF CANADA

"The health of Canada's manhood is such an important factor in our war effort, it may be the determining factor whether we win or lose," declared Dr. James J. McCann, of Ottawa, chairman of the Parliamentary Health Committee, speaking recently to an audience of women in Canada.

To win, Dr. McCann declared, we must be strong, morally, mentally and physically. "It is not enough to have the will to win nor to be financially strong, or to have all the instruments of war, unless we have men and women in good health to work on the front."

Why were 12,000 men who offered their services to their country rejected because they were physically unfit, Dr. McCann asked. "Probably with old heart or kidney scars, or diphtheria or scarlet fever or measles, or ocular defects or stomach ulcers that either were preventable or could have been cured had early treatment been available."

Dr. McCann urged that every Canadian soldier be immediately toxoided against diphtheria. As for industrial workers on the home front, he urged that their hours of work be not too long, their working conditions should be good, and their nutrition up to standard.

Canada has 50,000 idle workers on the industrial front every day of the year through sickness, he went on. Instead of 50,000 health workers in Canada there ought to be half a million of them, Dr. McCann declared.

In conclusion Dr. McCann advocated a national health crusade, subsidizing of full-time health services, medical care of the underprivileged, federal grants to aid provinces, and larger grants to voluntary bodies engaged in health work.

HIS LEGAL OPINION

WHAT ONE LAWYER THOUGHT OF CARE MADE BY ASSOCIATE

E. E. Edgar tells this story in the Chicago Daily News: When Senator Roscoe Conkling was a young lawyer, he once defended a man who was charged with committing arson. Conkling worked very hard on the case, but lost after a bitter fight. When he tried to collect his fee, the man refused to pay, claiming that it was exorbitant.

"That man provokes me," Conkling told a fellow attorney. "I never had a client who questioned my fee before. I spent a lot of time on him. He was convicted, yes, but I worked hard for him. I fought his case through the lower courts, appealed the decision, and even took it to the Supreme Court, where he was finally given ten years. And just because I charge $3,000 for my services, he grumbles. Now I ask you, was that too high a fee for such a case?"

"Well," said his associate, "there is no doubt that you did a great deal of work, and I don't think $3,000 an excessive fee, but it is my considered opinion that he could have been compensated for less money."

Some folks wonder why they don't get on, when all they're trying to do is get by.

Fishery research in Canada dates from 1852.

CHAPTER XXX.

The tiny hands on Devona's own watch pointed at five minutes past 2 when Macias finally turned off the main boulevard into a quieter street, swung into a curving drive. The Louis Quatorze! Devona recognized it instantly.

Macias still didn't speak as the velvet-lined elevator carried them up to his elaborate suite. Not until he'd closed the door, dismissed the houseboy, did he turn toward her with the black, smiling cruelty of those dark eyes.

Calmly he tapped the white shoe box he carried under his arm. "I'll put this away first, Dona, my darling. Nasty stuff—Heroin I don't think you'd like it."

Mute, she watched him cross the long drawing room to the blotchy oil painting of the Monterey pines. Touching the heavy gold frame at the corner, he slid back the picture, revealing the efficient little wall safe.

Shuddering, she turned her back to the Monterey pines.

"Cold?" Macias' voice taunted her. "I'll mix a drink."

"No, thanks."

"Come, sit down." He indicated one of the matching chairs flanking the huge fireplace. "We have lots to chat about, you and I."

Obediently, she dropped into the thick-cushioned chair, watching him take a cork coaster from a small drawer in the mahogany lamp table, set the sweating high-ball glass on it meticulously.

Grimly, she notched her chin high, met his eyes steadily.

"Now my darling, suppose you tell me why you so thoughtfully went on that little errand for me?"

Alert, Devona played for time. "Just—for fun."

"Pretty dangerous fun—isn't it?"

She shrugged. "Maybe."

"Of course it had nothing to do with young Brasher," he said, smiling as he drained his glass.

"It would have—if I'd gotten away with it," she admitted coolly, amazed that the terror inside didn't show in her voice.

He nodded. "Yes I thought so. Too bad you didn't get away with it, too. Young Brasher is going to help."

Devona felt her cheeks blanch but she kept her voice steady. "Really? You've been so—co-operative—already, too, haven't you?"

"Yes. Until just recently. I've been able to give Brasher advice that has kept him out of danger very nicely." He smiled wickedly. "But now—since he has been disregarding my suggestions—" He let that drift off into a sinister little silence.

Relieves MONTHLY

FEMALE PAIN

Woman who suffer pain of irregular periods with cranky nervousness due to menstrual difficulties should try Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Tablets (100 tablets). They relieve such distress. Pinkham's Tablets made especially for women help banish all sorts of trouble and can among symptoms. Follow label directions. Made in Canada.

"I only wanted to be sure what your connection is with this little deal," Macias was saying, "I shall we say—help young Brasher to retire."

By marshaling every shred of self-control of which she was capable, she didn't let a flicker of emotion show in her face. "Nothing, Mr. Brasher didn't even know I suspected anything."

"No? Really, now, Dona?" He smiled, poured himself another brandy. "You don't expect me to believe that?"

"Why not? It happens to be the truth."

He just looked at her over the rim of his glass. "You are a beautiful little liar, Dona. But—" he shrugged, "we'll change all that. How long since you have suspected that I managed that little enterprise?"

"Oh—I don't remember."

"And—" the laugh was gone now, "how many people have you told?"

"None. I wanted to figure things out for myself."

"I see," skeptically. "You're a cool little customer. Have you figured out what will happen now?"

"No—" a wry little smile. "I think I can leave that up to you."

He scowled. "What, exactly, does Dale Brasher mean to you?"

"Nothing," and kept her fingers crossed.

"How would you like to play the game my way?"

She toyed idly with the strap of her handbag and stalled. "Meaning—?"

"Meaning that you'll have a chance to make yourself some nice change. I could save a lovely woman very nicely—a lovely woman with daring and brain—and the right attitude."

She smiled. "Thanks, mister, for the compliments."

"Besides—" deliberately, he filled his glass again, "it wouldn't be healthy for you to go on meddling in matters you don't understand."

"Maybe if you—explained—"

Slowly he put down his glass, leaned toward her. "A smart girl like you ought to be able to guess."

Macias came to stand just behind the, the sound of his heavy breathing, the touch of his hands on her arms made her shudder involuntarily as he turned her toward him.

"Going to be sensible, sweetheart and listen to reason?" he asked, his eyes already sure of her. "I can make things pretty sweet for you—if you'll just play along with me."

Trying not to let her repulsion show, she cocked an eyebrow indulgently. "And—if I don't—"

His fingers tightened on her arm. "You will. You like this place. You like nice things. You'll like it here much better than the place—I'd have to send you. Just to keep you out of danger, or course."

Once. Devona's heart hammered like a piston. "I see."

Behind them a closet door opened suddenly and some one laughed a shrill hysterical sound that was mirthless and horrible.

Macias scowled at her a moment. Then he picked up a telephone, gave a number curtly.

"Hello! Speak to Wong."

A moment's silence. Then "Wong? Got a job for you. Get here as quick as you can."

Replacing the receiver, he turned to the trembling girl on the floor. "Wong'll see that you get out of town," he said, with an abrupt laugh.

"And that you don't come back, either. Maybe next time you'll obey orders."

Slowly horror poured awful realization into Devona's numbed brain. He didn't—he couldn't—mean that—that—"Jose!" She sprang to her feet.

"Freda. You can't pull this stuff. You—" Macias blustered.

"Can't I? And why not? You need killing, you know."

"Maybe I do—" calmly enough. "But what good will that do you? The cops will catch up with you and—"

"Oh, no they won't, dearie. Because this time I'm going right along with you—via the next bullet. The cops and the newsboys will have a lot of fun with the story." She smiled calmly at Devona. "Maybe they'll even think this dame did the job. No witnesses. Motive—jealousy. Make good headlines, anyway, won't we, Jose?"

Devona felt him stiffen, reach calmly for a cigarette.

"Well—" he began, calmly, but his eyes never left the girl's face. "—go ahead. If you've made up your mind—"

He struck a match, touched the flickering flame to the cigarette, and then, as if by accident, flicked it directly toward the girl's face.

Only a moment's distraction, but enough. A moment later he had leaped to her side, wrenched the little pistol from her hand, thrust her, cursing, into a chair where he held her easily.

"Damn you! Damn you! Give me that!" she cried hysterically, and then burst into tears.

Urgent Call

Canadian Women Invited To Lend Services For War

Canadian women are now being invited to fight Hitler with one of their favorite weapons—a good meal. An urgent call has gone out from the Department of National War Services for 300 cooks.

Applicants don't need to be fancy culinary experts or dietitians in order to qualify. The main requirement is that they know the simple recipes for the "home-cooked" style of food so dear to the heart of the airmen and soldier boy.

If the volunteer is accepted, she will be issued a smart uniform and enlisted in the Canadian Women's Auxiliary Air Force or the Canadian Women's Army Corps.

The need is a vital one and authorities have promised there will be no delay in handling applications. Successful applicants will be notified at once to report for medical examination. Rate of pay is ninety cents a day, with uniform, medical services and board supplied.

Applications are available at all R.C.A.F. recruiting centres, at Military District headquarters and at the offices of National War Services divisional registrars throughout Canada.

Successful volunteers for the Canadian Women's Auxiliary Air Force will be sent for three weeks of training at Havelock College, followed by a special six weeks cooking course at Guelph. They will then be posted to R.C.A.F. stations.

Chances for promotion in the cooking branch will be as good as in any other trade of the service auxiliaries. Every woman who steps forward will be playing an important role. Not only will she be helping to keep Canada's soldiers and airmen in trim by preparing good food for them, but she will also be releasing a man for service behind the gun.

The great thinker is seldom a disputant. He answers other men's arguments by stating the truth as he sees it—Daniel March.

Playing Smart

Practical Jokes Often Lead To Serious Consequences

You can never tell how a practical joke will end. According to a dispatch from St. Paul's, Minnesota, a fortnight ago a young man who had been on the dance floor fell and injured his spine when a friend jokingly pulled the chair from under him. He will be an invalid for the rest of his life.

If you want to play practical jokes, play them on yourself. An act that may be harmless to you may be fatal to another. Don't interfere with another's life unless you can do some good. Why should there be pleasure in making a laughing stock of another person, even if no other harm results?—Guelph Mercury.

It is the hardest thing in the world to be a good thinker without being a good self-examiner.—Shaftesbury.

Secret study, silent thought, is after all, the mightiest agent in human affairs.—Channing.

A small group of wise thinkers is better than a wilderness of dullards and stronger than the might of empires.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Thinking, not growth, makes manhood. Accustom yourself, therefore, to thinking.—Isaac Taylor.

The happiness of your life depends upon the quality of your thoughts, therefore guard accordingly, and take care that you entertain no notions unsuitable to virtue and reasonable nature.—Marcus Antonius.

Even If Account Of Hitler's Funeral Is Inaccurate

A German gentleman had just attended Hitler's funeral and returned home to tell his wife about the obsequies. "It was beat... outiful!" he enthused. "Such mountains of wonderful flowers, sent from all over the world for the Fuehrer! Such eloquent speeches from Herr Goering, Herr Gobell and Herr von Ribbentrop, and such crowds of people. After the speeches, they lowered the casket into the grave, then drew it up, then lowered it again, then drew it up... ." "But why?" interrupted his frau. "Because," exclaimed the husband, whispering, "every time they lowered it, there was such applause they had to bring it up for an encore!"—Financial Post.

Says Scots Will Not Eat Pork While At Sea

Reference to Scots eating bacon in spite of the theological scruples which they have against eating pork is a reminder that pork in any form is, or was until recently, the object of a curious discrimination by one section of Scots—the fishermen of the East Coasts. Although they enjoyed eating bacon as anyone else, a breakfast of bacon and eggs in their own homes, when they were at sea the flesh of the pig was strictly taboo.

Woe unto any member of a Scotch herring drifter's crew who dares to shock the convention of his kind by smuggling a piece of pork aboard in his own private provisions kit!

On the Fife seaboard there is still told the story of a boat which for two successive nights drew blank while the rest of the fleet were hauling in heavily laden nets. Eventually a puzzled skipper found one of his crew with a few slices of pork secreted in his locker. These went overboard, and so the story goes, the drifter's catch of herring that night amply proved what had caused the death of the two preceding nights.—Manchester Guardian.

Cacti terrariums are specially fascinating. With the prickly, quantity-shaped plants you can combine yellow-flowered saxifrage and sempervivum "hen and chicks" whose leaves grow in such fat rosettes.

Best of all your glass garden thrives practically uncared for. All you do is start it—using, for cacti, first a layer of cinders and then sharp sand mixed with some garden seeds. Seeds or cuttings will grow on you can buy cheaply at stores.

Covered, the terrarium provides its own moisture, so that a weekly spoonful of water is more than enough.

Thirteen Rinks Required to Open Curling Arena

To Keep Fees at $8.00; Eleven Rinks Practically Filled; To Call Special Meeting When Thirteen Rinks Secured.

A meeting of the local curling club was held on Sunday evening with a better than average attendance. Interest seems to have increased this year over the past few years which finally resulted in the arena being closed down last season.

The secretary's report revealed that to meet a necessary expenditure of $400 it would require thirteen rinks at $8.00 per member.

It was decided that every effort would be made to keep the fee at $8.00 and that a drive would be made to get the necessary thirteen rinks.

From those present eleven rinks were listed. Four were complete and the others require either one or two men to fill. A number of new members have been lined up and it may be necessary to split up the veterans in order to get sufficient skips.

Skips listed were A. Dow, W. Antle, J. H. Boulton, E. Leier, W. Hoggart, A. Destobol, E. Leefeldt, W. L. Rippon, J. S. D'Apolomina, H. Claes and J. Kerr. Curlers who are not listed above and who desire to skip a rink can do so.

Persons desiring to curl can contact any of the above skips or secretary A. Balloch and they will be promptly placed on a rink.

To Meet The C.I.O. Invasion

From the recent annual meeting of the B.C. Division of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy has come one of the most outspoken condemnations of the C.I.O. and its "Fuehrer," John L. Lewis, yet heard in Canada. National institute President, Dr. W. G. McBride, has long been known as a straight-forward speaker on matters pertaining to the welfare of one of Canada's major industries. And in this case he was able to speak with the added authority of one who has become fully conversant and familiar with labour relations.

When one recalls the B.C. mine labor troubles of about a year ago, the prolonged sabotage of the war effort through the slow down in the Nova Scotia coal mines and the current wave of unrest in the Kirkland Lake district, all of which have resulted from C.I.O. interference in Canadian labor relations, then one can only feel inclined to agree with the burden of Dr. McBride's address in Vancouver, in which he asked:

"Shall labor be compelled to accept representation by an organization which is controlled outside of Canada and has shown, time and again, that its primary object is to grasp control of the labor movement without regard to the interest or desires of the workers or the effect upon our struggle against Hitler?"

Unfortunately it can not be said that the Federal government has been giving very much leadership to have this situation fully under stood. The recent order-in-council forbidding strikes brought on by a majority of the crews involved, although a step in the right direction, will have to be supported and enforced with considerably more authority than has been apparent in the past, lest it too prove ineffectual. To quote Dr. McBride again: "The situation is grave... it is time to forget politics and put an end to this C.I.O. invasion."
